OUR TEACHERS AND AIDES

Remote learning, no matter the cause, will be arranged and taught by Flanagan-Cornell Unit #74 staff. Teachers and aides will be available Monday through Friday from 1:30-3:20 specifically to work with remote learners and on our remote learning platforms. Attendance will be tracked daily by assignments being required to be completed and turned in digitally by 9:30 p.m.

WHAT WILL IT LOOK LIKE?

5th-12th grade students, once the guardian has agreed to and signed our technology policies, will be given a Chromebook device, case, and charger to assist them with remote classwork. Several educational technology platforms have been purchased by the district to assist both teachers, parents, and students during remote learning. Qualifying students without internet can also request a district remote hotspot.

Remote learning students will have synchronous (live!) and asynchronous (after live class is over) opportunities during each remote day to learn, practice, and be evaluated on the same content as their in-person peers. Examples may include live video sessions during school, recorded lectures, and virtual activities to support learning. All found and completed through one virtual platform...Google Classroom!
